During November 1948, you submitted a regular efficiency rating on [redacted] for the period February 22, 1948 to August 22, 1948. The resultant adjective rating was "Very Good." I concurred in the rating as submitted, for I fully appreciate [redacted] shortcomings as well as I understand his good points.

However, in your letter of 27 December 1948, you indicated that his work performance had greatly improved. I also asked [redacted] to check into the matter during his recent trip, and he is of the opinion that [redacted] is doing an outstanding job.

I therefore suggest that if you can conscientiously do so you submit another efficiency rating on [redacted]. The rating, if submitted, should be indicated as "Administrative-Unofficial" and may cover any period of [redacted] employment on Cyprus subsequent to 22 August 1948. Such a rating would not rescind the previous one but would give due recognition to the excellent job that he has performed.
